MEDICINAL. MEDICINAL.

IT PREVENTS THE ENTRANCE of disease—pure blood and an active liver. How explained? The circulation of the blood is the great highway over which the germs of disease travel, the liver is the quarantine through whose gate any dread disease may or may not pass, as the liver chooses.

Are you watchful? Is your blood in order and your liver active, and your liver active, to repel disease? If not, you will find to repel disease? If not, you will find the property of t

Are you watchful?

Is your blood in order and your liver active, so as to repel disense? If not, you will find in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery just the hich you need. It comes to your assistance when you have such warnings of impure blood and inactive liver, as pimples, boils or carbuncles; or a feeling of lassitude, weakness and despondency. When your flesh is, from any cause, "reduced below a healthy standard," you've only to take the "Discovery," which will set all the organs into vigorous action and build up both flesh and strength. Avoid museous preparations and strength. Avoid nauseous preparations of Cod Liver Oil. They add fat, but not wholesome flesh or healthy tissue.

A Fat Man Stops Travel.

"Brooklyn Bridge! All out?" cried the conductor in that confident air characteristic of pullers of the bell rope, as a Bleecker street car came to a Cleanses the Na-standstill at two o'clock Monday after-

Single Passages, allays Pain and Inflammation.
Heals the Sores.
Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Three men and two women wearily made their way out of the car, mopping the perspiration from their faces. The conductor stood on the rear platform. His car was behind time and he HAY-FEVER THE CURE was impatient to give the signal to

One passenger didn't heed his "All out!" cry. He was a big man—a fat, big man. He sat in a corner of the car, one gigantic arm resting on the win-dow. His hat was on the seat beside him. Leaning against the head and the side of the car, he was very comfortable, apparently.

The conductor looked sharply at him and then strode menacingly to the front of the car. Placing a hand on the giant's shoulder he shook him, but it was a very slight movement he made. The giant didn't budge an inch. The

"Here, now," the autocrat of the car began gruffly, "You'll have to get up. You're at the end of the road."

There wasn't even a snore from the big sleeper. The conductor tried his two hands now, but he made as little impression as if he were tugging at a stone wall. He weighed only 125 pounds, and the big man looked as it he would tip the scales at four hundred.

Backing away, the conductor took a careful survey of the beef he had been tackling. He looked perplexed. Then he became angry.
"This darned fooling's got to stop,"
"This darned fooling's got to stop,"

he cried, returning to the attack. "I can't stay here all day for your pleas ure. You've got to get out right now.'
He went at his work like a man ir the rush line of a football eleven. He tugged and swore, and swore and tugged. Not a move was made by the sleeping monster. He breathed regu-larly and easily and there was a childlike expression of contentment on his rosy face. The driver gave the conductor a band, but even both of them didn't seem to be able to turn a hair of he fat man's head. By this time several cars were blocked and many passers by had stopped to watch the fun. Other haughty conductors, their hands on their change pockets, ran to the scene.

"Let's throw him off," suggested one.

the car, and they and the other conducter and the driver went to work on the peaceable fat man. They took hold on him wherever they could—his trousers legs, his collar, his arms-and strained away. They puffed and blew and swore, but they couldn't nove him. They didn't even wake

At him they went again when they had wiped the swept from their brows. They were vicious now-just like dogs suffering from the heat. "Here, no hitting below the belt," yelled a man in the crowd who was ready to give odds that the enemy couldn't route the fat one.

The assailing party was on a savag rush when this remark was made. The laugh from the crowd shamed them and they drew back and mopped their brows again. "Why don't yer get a derrick, yer jays," suggested a lad whose tattered remnant hung on one "gallus" nailed to his dirty knickerbockers. While the attacking force was holdng a council of war a shout went up rom the crowd mingled with pitiful exclamations in Italian. A banana pedler's cart had been upset in the jam f cars and the City Hall Park's army of urchins was descending on the fruit ke vultures.

The fat man had the sympathy of the dirty faced Arabs.

"Why don't yer let de poor bloke a'one," they cried to the conductor.

"He's sunstruck, dat's what he is."

A piece of banana whizzed through the air. It struck a limp conductor on the neck. A hurried consultation was held, and it was decided to retreat. The reinforcement left the car, the driver took his place on the front platform and the conductor pulled the bell strap. Away started the horses, followed by the cheers and laughter of the crowd. The fat man continued to slumber peacefully, while a fly lit on his broad nose. The conductor was tucking a handkerchief under his collar as the car disappeared. It was whispered the fat man was a museum freak who had been "doing" the Bowery and who had been overcome by the hospitality of the natives of that part of the United States.—New York Herald.
